HUDSON RESOURCES TO BE ONE OF THE FEATURED FIRMS AT THE NEW YORK DIAMOND EXPO 04

VANCOUVER, B.C. – May 17, 2004 – Hudson Resources, Inc. (TSX Venture Exchange: HUD), a junior exploration mining company investigating potential diamond sites in Greenland, today announced that it will be one of the featured firms at the New York Diamond Expo 04, to be held on June 2 and 3, 2004.

As one of the sponsors of the Expo, Hudson will operate a booth where investors can meet Company representatives and learn more about Hudson's activities in the Sarfartoq region of West Greenland, where it holds exploration rights to land with geological conditions favourable to diamond deposits. The Company also will provide background on the technical and managerial depth of its management team.

"Hudson's appearance at Diamond Expo 04 is timely for both the Company and for investors," said James Tuer, President and Director. "Over the next several months, we are scheduled to carry out an extensive exploration program on our diamond prospects in Greenland. We are planning a heliborne magnetic survey over areas that have very significant indicator mineral anomalies and yet have never been tested with geophysics. We'll then follow-up any anomalous occurrences in the field with the intention of establishing drill targets. Subject to encouraging results and other factors, we are planning to be drilling later this summer. With what we believe to be a very prospective project, we want to use this opportunity at Expo 04 to make ourselves better known to the investing community, and for investors to get to know us."

Diamond Expo 04, to be held at the New York Marriott Marquis in New York City, is open this year to qualified private investors for the first time. There is no charge to register for this conference and it includes entry for each day of the conference, a copy of the official conference publication, and all the workshops and presentations. Registration information can be found at www.iiconf.com. According to the information on their website, the conference "will present investment and diversification opportunities with the leading explorers and producers of rough diamonds and it is expected to draw the world's top global mining executives, government policy makers, natural resource analysts and financial advisors. Significant emerging prospects in Canada will be featured. Held concurrently with the New York Institutional Gold Conference, the Expo will include presentations on all levels of the pipeline, including topics such as emerging market trends and strategies, demand and pricing issues, verticalization, new discoveries, and updates on the Diavik and Ekati deposits in Northern Canada."
